

~ You are beloved ~

You are beloved.

You will always be a piece of someones life.

A piece that will never fall off.

You will always have a purpose in life.

And it will always exist.

It will never leave you left to bleed.

And you will never leave it.

Sometimes it might be hard to see it during tough times.

But everyone will always care about you.

There is always someone searching for you.

There still is someone searching for you.

Everyone has a purpose to live in this world.

To live in this world for as long as possible.

To never fade away.

You also have a purpose to be in this world.

A purpose that will always be there.

A purpose that will never fade away.

Ignore the people talking behind your back.

They're behind you for a reason.

And they will always be there.

You are a piece of art.
One without a value.
But is still beloved by everyone.
A piece of art that always will be there.
Just like every other piece of art.

There are still people that care about you.
And they will always be there for you.
Even if you don't think there is.
There will always be.

Every step you take.
You will change something in the world.
You will change the world to a better place.
You will do the best you can.
And you will succeed.

Because you are the best yourself you can ever be.
And you are the best yourself you will ever be.
And you will always be the best yourself there will ever be.

Don't let anything bring you down.
There isn't a way down.
There is only an up.
And that's where you are going to go.
Because that's the best way you can go.

You will always be beloved.
Beloved by everyone on this planet.
And you will always be.
Because you are yourself.
And you will always be.

Don't listen to the people bringing you down.
You will always be the same.
Even if someone else says you aren't.
You will always be the same.

Your friends will always be there.
And so will everyone else.

The world is rough.
But it's just to accept.

No one is the same as you.
You are unique.
There is only 1 of you.
You can't be replaced.
For everyone that loves you.
So, stay safe.
For the people that loves you.
For this world.
Stay safe.

You are beloved.